In Episode Earth: Survival, you play as a lone astronaut who arrived on Earth alone. Your goal is to survive on the unknown planet. There are many variables that you need to find out about the map like oxygen, water, electromagnetic radiation, toxins and many more. But also you need to make sure that you collect enough treasures to make a lock from them to open the teleportation gate and escape the map. In Episode Earth: Collecting and Escaping, you must collect the amount of treasures the map give you (5000, 10000 or 12000) to make a lock from them to use the teleportation gate to escape. But beware, if you are killed before unlocking the gate you are out of the map forever and you must start from map introduction again. About This Project: This project started from a simple idea that I wanted to work on a game inspired from Alone in the Dark games (AITD). The other part of this idea is that I wanted to make a game that will work as my full-time job in the near future. And thirdly, I wanted to make a game that people on my social media can play and be my audience. I never made a game before, and i'm making all this sounds very easy, but the fact is, that I'm a virtual producer, and this project was my first time ever to make an independent game, so there will be bugs and everything. I'm working on a city map for the game, and I have already made the core mechanics to make the game playable. I will be adding many more features, maps, game modes, and weapons, as well as improve some of them if I find that a certain feature needs improvement. What can you expect from this game: • Friendly Fire • Many game modes • City map with some new features • Dynamic that will cause more suspense and have more fun • Full-time project • It's free to play • Physics is improved • New physics system • Many features What you need: The most expensive required will be the Unreal 4 engine, which is a good help in accelerating the project. But if you don't have it you can still make the game, but your work will probably last less than half the expected time. Required Software: - Unreal 4 - Unity Recommended Software: - Photoshop What you can get: This game is a free game on the play store and will be free-to-play, however, I

You have to collect treasure from the 4 zones to exit the map. Start collecting by hitting the collect button near the portal where you entered the map.You have to acquire a certain amount of treasures and place them in your stash to generate a key. A key will teleport you to the exit portal and you will be out of the map. If you are killed before that you won't be able to return to the map anymore.You can only exit the map by generating a key out of your stash. The number of your stash items is written in the upper left hand corner. When you have enough items (lets say 20) and that key is generated then a key will be generated that will teleport you to the exit portal.You can use your key to teleport back to the

What's new in Planet Collectors: Episode Earth:

Planet Collectors: Episode Earth is an assembly-required Xbox Live Arcade video game developed by Spooky Squid Studios and published by Activision. Players pilot either Shadowhawk or Attackhawk, each on a mission to collect all of the artifacts in the Epoch. Earth is the only game in the series to be released on all major gaming platforms. Gameplay The gameplay in Planet Collectors: Episode Earth revolves around the piloting of an aerospace company's spacecraft, which are based on historical spacecraft. Its gameplay design is influenced by classic 8-bit video games like Space Invaders, Asteroids and Xevious. One player, Shadowhawk, is the pilot of the spacecraft trying to reclaim control of the Epoch from the Goons; the other player, Attackhawk, is the pilot of a Gremlin ship. During the course of the game, the players will attack each other's spacecraft and steal their orbs. From there, they will be taken to a secret base and their mission will be completed. Each player can dock their spacecraft with the base; when the player completes a collection of their orbs in the base, the base will grant them an orb as a reward. When all of the orbs in the base have been collected, the player's orb pool will increase to 3. If the player loses all of their orbs in the base, the game will end; each player loses a game when they fly out of orbit. A limited number of lives are also available; to score extra orbs, the players must destroy the planet's surface. Some planetary types will give the player a bonus orb for destroying them. Special orbs called Evolutions can be collected for extra, temporary abilities. These include boosts to the craft's offensive or defensive capabilities as well as "oomph abilities". Each planet has one guaranteed Evolution and 14 possible Evolutions, with the first Evolution being unlocked at the beginning of every mission. The spacecraft have a maximum "level" of 10, and as the levels increase, so do the available Evolutions. The vessels carry 15 "Loadout Picks" that can be combined to create weapons for special situations, such as dealing with artillery barrages. There are seven "missions", which each contain a collection of orbital missions in order to accomplish five special objectives around each of the five planets. For each mission, it will usually be possible for the player to finish with eight or more of the orbs in the orb pool. Some missions are accessible only for a small amount of the game.
