Posted on August 6, 2009 Garrett: "Vikings Fans Are Really Entitled To Dislike The Super Bowl" Chris Garrett -- who has been in the NFL for nearly 20 years and has spent the last 11 with the Minnesota Vikings -- joined Rotoworld to talk about the upcoming season. Garrett also addressed the Vikings hosting the Super Bowl next season and discussed the fear of losing long-time fans: Q: How important will winning the Super Bowl be for the Vikings in terms of building a winning franchise for the long term?A: In my mind, it will be huge. There's no question about that. I don't think it would hurt the [Vikings] from a marketing standpoint to win the Super Bowl. I don't think people would stop watching. I don't think that would happen. But, I think that it helps. I think that it helps significantly in terms of rallying the troops around what we're trying to do here. We'll get the pressure off. That pressure will not go away. ... Q: There are some long-time Vikings fans who aren't excited about next season. What is that like?A: I see it every day. I think it's a little disconcerting when people stop watching. But, I think it's just football. I think when you win, you win. I think people are entitled to dislike you when you lose. I think that's what every fan is entitled to do. That's just part of it. ...
