The Edge of Glory But I'm on the edge of glory, and I don't want to lose my mind And I've got no one else to blame but myself But I'm on the edge of glory, and I don't want to lose my mind Listen: [audio:artists.angel.de.00046.the.edge.of.glory.mp3] [audio:artists.angel.de.00046.the.edge.of.glory.mid] [audio:artists.angel.de.00046.the.edge.of.glory.loop] [audio:artists.angel.de.00046.the.edge.of.glory.mix] The longest ride of my life How did we get to here? How did we come so far? How did we fall so far? It all starts now How do I know this can't be wrong? My soul's suffering, I lose myself in the music And I drown in the songs And the tears they fall from my eyes I'm on the edge of glory and I don't want to lose my mind And I've got no one else to blame but myself But I'm on the edge of glory and I don't want to lose my mind Listen: [audio:artists.angel.de.00047.the.edge.of.glory.mp3] [audio:artists.angel.de.00047.the.edge.of.glory.mid] [audio:artists.angel.de.00047.the.edge.of.glory.loop] [audio:artists.angel.de.00047.the.edge.of.glory.mix] Ready or not You're riding with me I'm a six-gun man Shooting at the sun And the moon Listen: [audio:artists.angel.de.00048.ready.or.not.mp3] [audio:artists.angel.de.00048.ready.or.not.mid] [audio:artists.angel.de.00048.ready.

Five minutes from the gates of the city is the mythic temple. The temple is about 20 floors tall and built with gray stone. at the top of the ancient column is a golden light. It brings with it such illusions that the Temple seems hollow. The structure is completely made of stone. The interior of the temple is largely empty. Many skeletal hands protrude from the walls while light sources and traps cover the walls.

In the center of the room is a sphinx statue. The water fountain that the sphinx overlooks is connected to a pipe. The pipe is fed by a river that flows underneath the temple and through a small waterfall into it as a large stone door. The door leads into a hall of doors with skulls and skeletons as a decoration. The hall will confuse what direction to go and confuse the player.

Many salamanders fly around the hall. They are harmless and are needed by the Player Character.

A cave intersection ahead looks promising with no obvious path. At the end of the path is a giant urn with water dripping from the top of the urn. In the chest of the urn is found a cave key and a mirror hint that the player should look into.

As the player walks closer to the chest they are sent backwards by a sleeping humanoid. The chest triggers a sleeping trigger.

Walk past this sleeping humanoid and into a room with a giant demonic man ahead.

OPTIONS

- Spawn a friendly NPC with random encounters (remove walk to NPC)
- Walk to the chest triggered by the sleeping trigger

Self-reported balance in older people: quality and reliability of a short-form questionnaire. To assess the quality and reliability of a short-form questionnaire that assesses balance for use in epidemiological studies in older people. The relationship between balance performance and balance confidence was also explored. A cross-sectional study. Thirty independent living centers (70% of target population). A total of 619 noninstitutionalized individuals aged 70 to 89 years, at least 1 year poststroke. Not applicable. Balance was measured with the Performance-Oriented Mobility Assessment (POMA), a balance self-efficacy scale, and a balance confidence scale. POMA scores were correlated with self-reported balance confidence, using Spearman rank correlation coefficients. The quality of the questionnaire was determined by using the following criteria: use of a recognized instrument, responsiveness to change, and responsiveness to clinical relevance. Quality-of-life instruments were not considered. Internal consistency was good, with Cronbach alpha ranging from 0.74 to 0.88. The responsiveness of the questionnaire to change in balance performance was tested using the correlations of POMA score with perceived balance confidence at baseline and at follow-up, using two mixed models analysis of variance models, each with the change in perceived balance confidence as the dependent variable. Balance self-efficacy at baseline was related to self-reported balance confidence. Following minor changes in balance performance, the confidence in balance declined, and as balance improved, so did self-perceived balance confidence. The short-form questionnaire can be recommended as a reliable and valid method for monitoring balance and balance confidence in older people. Limbic and extra-limbic serotonin (5-HT) receptor changes following repeated d-amphetamine administration. The effect of repeated d-amphetamine on serotonin (5-HT) receptor subtypes was investigated using quantitative autoradiography in brains from male rats. Significant increases in [3H]5-HT binding were observed in the lateral septum, dorsal and ventral hippocampal regions, superior and inferior colliculi, substantia nigra, amygdala and nucleus accumbens (NA) following repeated d-amphetamine treatment (1.5 mg/kg/day for 21 days). No significant changes in [3H]5-HT binding were observed in the dorsal raphe nucleus or c
