Cuomo's trade-war... ORCHARD PARK - NY's Governor, Andrew Cuomo, just threatened a "trade war" against NYC, after he was bounced off his next high-priced gig in the Big Apple. And the additional costs on our small businesses and farmers, and among our numerous manufacturers seems likely to escalate, once the media exaggerates his faux populist tirade. Now, Cuomo is trying to make us taxpayers sit and watch while he "gets down with the big boys". He blames President Obama, via his Commerce Secretary, Penny Pritzker, after she delivered some harsh indictments during her testimony at a congressional hearing in late April. But it was obvious that Pritzker was parroting what President Obama has been saying to her to get her to join his team. Pritzker indicated that unless Cuomo regulates the lucrative alcohol trade, NY must abandon its 'franken-beer' production model, and comes up with an All-American brewer to take his place

HOMEpage: >GENOME ANNOUNCEMENT

===== The Gram-positive bacterium Bacillus subtilis is a ubiquitous organism that lives in a wide range of ecological niches including soil and the intestine of insects ([@B1]). In 1998, in the context of a comparative genomic study, De Las Rivas et al. ([@B2]) reported the first genome sequence of Bacillus subtilis, the model organism *B. amyloliquefaciens, and its close relative *B. licheniformis. A few years later, in 2005, the first strain-specific genomic sequence for *B. sphaericus, which belongs to the same phyletic lineage as *B. subtilis, was sequenced by the group of Andrade ([@B3]). As part of the GÉANT project (Genomic encyclopedia of bacteria and archaea) (), the whole genomes of 40 *Bacillus spp. were sequenced and compared. Such comparison highlighted some significant differences in gene content and organization of the *Bacillus core gene set ([@B4]). *B. subtilis strains are available at the Pasteur Institute collection (B.s. P^t, see). The IAM 12104 strain, sequenced in this work, was isolated by Fuetsch and Orth from soil samples in South Korea. Bacilli of the *B. subtilis subgroup J and *B. amyloliquefaciens subgroup S include more complex life cycles including insect interactions ([@B2], [@B5]). A special feature of the *B. subtilis subgroups J and S is the presence of complex regulatory mechanisms. A transcriptional repressor, SpoVG, has been reported to control the sporulation process ([@B6]). Moreover, in their sporulation phases, J and S strains are able to produce additional proteins involved in the development of the two polar
