Bean and Nothingness is a challenging, turn-based puzzle game. Each puzzle has a set of instructions that teach you how to create monsters. In each puzzle, you have to find the right combination of one or more colored beans to match a specific recipe. Once you've created the monster you want, you send it to the puzzle to help you. The puzzle is solved by moving the bean(s) on the bottom row to the corresponding space on the top row. Put the monster in the correct position for the puzzle, shoot the monster with the magic wand to create a rocket, and use the monster's maneuverability to guide you to the goal tile. On your journey you will meet new monsters and other mechanics, and discover how they work. For each monster you will learn how it acts in a set of easy puzzles, but as you progress in the game you will also learn a new way to use the monster to solve more challenging puzzles. Over 180 puzzles range from easy to extremely challenging. A colorblind-friendly mode gives the beans distinct shapes. Controller is supported, although the game is best experienced on keyboard. For more information check out the official site here - video of the first two puzzles on the official site: A: You can use this game, the rules are simple: You are a hex beetle, and your goal is to go from left to right, using the least amount of steps you can, i.e. minimum crossing of hexagons. You have a magic wand, wherewith you can fire a beam at a hexagon, turning it into an obstacle. It has 120 levels, and it can be played by one player. The day after we declared my boyfriend and I together in a relationship, he left me a very important voicemail. He asked me not to speak to my family; he would know what to do. I imagined he meant this as a form of control, but I didn't believe him when he told me it was because we were doing the right thing and that he just needed time to prepare. I was never happier to be wrong. Six months later he showed up on my doorstep with a gift: a stack of knives, one for each of us. "This is the best birthday present you'll ever have," he said. "It's the

RIFT - Laethys' Indulgence Power Pack RIFT - Laethys' Indulgence Power Pack Name: Phrygian Type: Power] Rift Level: 80 Ui: 35% Activation Method: Right-click to open Form: Blood Actions: Rune-tempered holy sword Description: It's an act of selflessness, even suicide, but only if you die while you finish your deeds. If you choose life through blood and offering, you would still be redeemed. The weapon deals damage equal to the damage you deal to your enemies and yourself. 2. WILDING LIGHTS - Inner Sanctum Darkness flourished against the city, although the morning sun was a sight. However, citizens who left their homes after the sunrise were chased and killed by the dark. Terror indeed. But what came next was even more frightening. The stout walls of the city were broken by enormous mouth, and fast as a blink, the shape of a giant reptile whose head was 'V' and the tail was a bloody shadow was visible, it opened its throat and screamed, and blood flowed down to drown the city. A monster like this, a giant vermiform, whose existence was known to many through songs and stories. It was the act of a man who truly believed in God. His name was Dazu Jin, also known as Dazu Jin Wu, and he lived at and worked for the mountain of Arvin and was a manager of 300 mages. This creature was his last testament. Mobs of people braved the danger to aid in his task, and all they were thinking of was to help Dazu Jin, even if he was a monster. In the distance, 'The Beast' of an ancient name roared away. The last day, the ordeal, the national anthem, the recipe, it was all over. This was a tragedy beyond words. When the sun finally rose over the holy mountain of Arvin, the work of Dazu Jin was complete, his voice had stilled, and his body was not found. In the remaining mob of civilians, there was no trace of hope. Those who wailed, broke and made a noose out of their sleeves that were dressed up in black, whose eyes were filled with rage, and to whom the ground was stained with blood, their hands were shaking, and looked at
