They said the suspect, who was identified as a 24-year-old Afghan, planned to kill "members of the German spy organisation BND", the Federal Office for the Protection of the Constitution. The alleged attacker, named by the police as Muhammad Ibrahim A, was captured on a surveillance camera at the departure gate of the airport, a police spokesman said. He was carrying an explosives belt and threw it from the airport to a vehicle waiting outside. Police said they believe the suspected bomber was a member of the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL), but they did not confirm if there was a link with last month's bombing on a train between the airport and Munich's main train station. Not terrorism The spokesman said on Tuesday that the operation to kill BND members was a "closely controlled action, probably by intelligence officials". "This was not an act of terrorism," he said. BND officers said they were not targeted in the operation. The target was likely an undercover agent or informants. The state's official newspaper, Frankfurter Allgemeine, cited unnamed sources as saying the attack might have been meant to disrupt the agency's efforts to protect German jets from drone attacks. The suspect was believed to have been in Germany for less than six months and came to the attention of police after trying to buy a gun, the spokesman said.
